

-Dialogue between Liuba and Police-(text coming from the video)

Police ask: "What are you doing?!"

I answered: "Praying."

Police answer: "This is not the right way to pray."
"You need to ask permission for that."

Then they asked for my ID.

My ID was in the bag of my camera operator.

I didn't want Police to see my camera operator.

I advised her with a little sign.

She had to turn her camera off.

Then she moved away but turned it on again.

Police saw the streaming camera operator.

They stopped her.

She said she was a tourist, recording for fun.

Police wanted to check her tape

In the end they let her go, but she could not shoot any more.

Police asked me if I was a real nun.

I said no, I am an artist, working on a multireligious project.

They accused me of unproper use of nun's dress.

I answered that my dress is not the dress of a real nun.

My Nun dress has details of all religions.

I designed it with a stylist.

Police said: 'Well, ok, but you have to admit that it is a bit ambiguous...'

I had to show all the details.

I had to explain all the project and all my intents.

They suggested to me to perform beyond the columnnade, on the Italian side.

At the end they let me go.

But I couldn't go on praying like this on Vatican ground.
